answer For the First dataset, where GDA performs worse than LOG REG, the x variables can be arranged in a way that they can be better distinguished / separated, and so GDA can have a better performance.